Fulbright Feels Foreign Policy Overshadowed

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today presidential campaign discussion of foreign policy may be shunted aside by public absorption with President Eisenhower's health.

Fulbright, a second Foreign Relations Committee member, has been highly critical recently of Secretary of State Dulles.

"The really important issue today is whether we are losing out to Russia in the undeclared areas of the world," he said. "While we talk about the President's health and whether there is lasting prosperity, we may be losing Asia to the Russians."

"We Democrats are certainly going to tell the people about what we think are blunder policies but how much attention we'll get I don't know."

Dulles has urged Democrats not to involve the tens Middle Eastern situation in the presidential campaign. Eisenhower has said he thinks the broad objectives and principles of foreign policy "should be above politics."

But Eisenhower said it others want to alter the methods the administration uses in carrying out those policies "it is certainly their privilege to criticize and try to make the change." Fulbright said that is what he is doing.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), another foreign relations committee member, said he doesn't think the Democrats will attract much attention with criticism of the administration's policies—but for a reason different from that assigned by Fulbright.

"In my judgment," he said, "the American people are convinced they will never become involved in a global war so long as President Eisenhower is in the White House. I think Secretary Dulles was right in saying that Russia's past policies have failed and the Soviets are now trying to change face."

Fulbright has called "fantastic" this evaluation of Moscow moves by Dulles. The Arkansas senator said that by taking such an optimistic view of Russian actions Dulles was making it more difficult to obtain congressional approval of foreign economic aid.

"The Eisenhower administration has been dragging its feet in the Middle East where there is a real chance of winning the undeclared and neutral areas of the world—in cultural and economic development," Fulbright said.

"Secretary Dulles has been so engrossed in signing up nations in military pacts and in getting substantial military assistance for them that cultural and economic developments have been neglected."

"Far too late he seems to be coming around to the realization that some long-term program of this nature is needed."

Eastland of Mississippi Is Attacked

By The Associated Press

A Negro leader yesterday called Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.) a "stinking albatross" around the neck of the Democratic party and another said he might quit his seat in Congress to devote more time to the fight against segregation.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington bureau director of the National Ass. for the Advancement of Colored People, threw the verbal punch at Eastland, an outspoken segregation advocate, in a Washington speech to the NAACP's Civil Rights Assembly.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) told a church rally in New York City that he may leave Congress and devote himself to a nationwide prayer movement against segregation if his March 28 Deliverance Day "extends itself successfully."

The Negro congressman wants Negroes and others to pray in support of the Negro boycott against buses in Montgomery, Ala., on that day. Powell is pastor of the 15,000-member Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem and chairman of the National Deliverance Day Committee.

Meanwhile, two New York newspapers reported that the University of Alabama, which recently expelled fully qualified Negroes if the law says it must,

Fire Damages Room in Home

Guerin, Willis Head Red Cross Drive

Dr. Lloyd Guerin of Hope will head up the 1956 Hempstead County Red Cross campaign for members and funds, it was announced here today.

Assisting him will be "Pap" Willis, Hope fire chief, chapter chairman, and Don Westbrook of Oak Crest Chapel, as the new home service chairman.

Dr. Guerin is expected to announce other assistants in the very near future.

Eisenhower's note was due to be delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office today by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. Washington officials said administration plans call for it to be made public tomorrow.

The letter constitutes the latest sound in a propaganda duel which the two men have been carrying on over disarmament and world peace for many months.

Eisenhower's note was due to be delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office today by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. Washington officials said administration plans call for it to be made public tomorrow.

It was learned the note first was dispatched to Moscow late last week, but poor radio reception forced a lengthy repeat transmission and delayed plans for a public announcement during the weekend.

The Eisenhower message is both a negative reply to Bulgarians repeated proposal for a Soviet-American friendship treaty and a positive reassertion of Eisenhower's own "open skies" disarmament plan.

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Garland County Grand Jury today opened an investigation of gambling at Hot Springs night clubs. But it was doubtful whether any of the men who raided two clubs last week would appear to testify.

State Police Director Herman Lindsey and state Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry said Saturday they didn't plan to attend the Grand Jury session unless they received a formal request from Garland County Prosecutor H. A. Tucker.

The Southern Club is downtown Hot Springs and the Pines Supper Club on the outskirts of the city were raided last Wednesday by State Police and assistants of the attorney general. Four truckloads of gambling equipment were confiscated and three men were charged with operating a gambling house, a felony in Arkansas.

Tucker said Saturday that he had written to Lindsey and Gentry, asking them to appear if they had any knowledge of law violations.

Lindsey and Asst. Atty. Gen. James L. Sloan said, however, that no members of their staffs would appear unless specifically asked. Lindsey said he would wait for a subpoena. "That's routine," he said.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, his mother, Mrs. Grace Fritz formerly of Hope, one sister and two brothers.

Writer Apparently Is Sold on Actress Deborah Kerr—But So Are Millions in U.S.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — To me, Deborah Kerr is one of the most beautiful and talented beings I have seen. She is a woman with a wifey-rrr-rrr!

To meet and talk with her in person was still, after all the movie people I had met, something of a personal adventure. She sits in men the kind of goose pimples I used to feel when I wore real pimples.

I am beyond true paralyzing stage fright, but I came out of the brightness down the steps into the semi-twilight of the 21 restaurant with some awe, not out of respect for the actress I was to see.

At the greeting table very close to the entrance I identified myself, said I was to see Deborah Kerr, mentioned that she would be accompanied by a Mr. Leonard Wayne of Paramount Pictures.

"Is she here?" I asked of the dark, not unhandsome attendant.

"No," he said positively.

Gestapo Method Hurled at Gentry by Grand Jury

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Garland County Grand Jury today accused Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry of setting himself up as a "Gestapo." The jury refused to indict three men arrested in state police raids last week.

The Grand Jury, called into session to consider illegal gambling at this resort city, declared Gentry staged his recent investigations of gambling here for the sole purpose of furthering his own political ambitions.

The jury commanded its local officers for "trying to prevent Garland County from becoming a whipping boy for a certain type of politician."

The jury's report, submitted to Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff, said the attorney general's refusal to confide his information had left local officers without "any actual knowledge of the raids."

It said that Gentry and State Police Director Herman Lindsey had been notified by Prosecutor H. A. Tucker of today's session of the Grand Jury, but that neither appeared, nor did any participants in the raids on the Pines Supper Club and the Southern Club.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A mass meeting of persons interested in finding a way to "curb this evil" of pari-mutuel gambling was scheduled at Winfield Methodist Church here this afternoon.

Plans for the meeting apparently grew out of the jumbled controversy over Southland Raising Corp.'s efforts to race greyhounds at its new million dollar track at West Memphis.

The meeting was called last week.

Any move to outlaw pari-mutuel gambling apparently would include Arkansas' only horse race track, Oaklawn Park at Hot Springs.

Pari-mutuel betting is the difference between black and red ink for horse and dog tracks.

Weekend developments in the year-long fracas, in the order in which they became public, included:

1. Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry, the Arkansas Racing commission's attorney, got the Arkansas Supreme Court to set aside a Pulaski County Court order which forbade the commission to grant an operating permit to Southland.

2. The Racing Commission granted Southland a franchise at 11:59 p. m. Friday, one minute before the deadline set out in Crittenton Chancellor W. Leon Smith's court order calling for approval of Southland's franchise application.

3. Gentry, it was learned Saturday, filed notice of appeal from Chancellor Smith's ruling at Marion late Friday. He told neither the commission, which repeatedly asked him to appeal, nor Gov. Orval Faubus, who sent a personal aide to Chancellor Smith seeking an 11th-hour extension of the deadline.

The Racing Commission rejected Southland's application for a permit last December. The only reason given was that the commission felt dog racing was not in the best interest of the state.

4. August Shultz, aged 81, a resident of Patmos, died at his home Sunday. A native of Poland, Mr. Shultz had lived in the United States for 45 years. He is survived by one brother, John Shultz of Patmos.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. today at Patmos by Rev. Floyd Clark. Burial by Hennion-Cornelius will be at Patmos.

Former Hope Man Killed in Wreck

Norman Gene Burger, 28, Shreveport, a former resident of Hope, died from injuries suffered in a motorcycle-auto accident Saturday at Atlanta, Texas. Mr. Burger was riding a motorcycle which collided with an auto.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, his mother, Mrs. Grace Fritz formerly of Hope, one sister and two brothers.

Jury to Study Hoxie Shortage

WALNUT RIDGE (AP) — The Lawrence County Grand Jury met today to decide if there is any basis for criminal action in an already-repaired shortage reported in Hoxie.

The meeting—for the panel in five years—is an indirect outgrowth of a continuing battle over racial integration in the schools at nearby Hoxie. The conflict was touched off last summer when about 1,000 white students in Hoxie public schools.

A routine state audit, unconnected with the integration dispute, resulted in a reported shortage of around $3,500.

"Is she here?" I asked of the dark, not unhandsome attendant.

"No," he said positively.

Heavy Damage in Wreck Near Emmet

Two cars and pickup truck collided about 11 p. m. Saturday night of Emmet and a large trailer-truck was heavily damaged. Trooper Guy Downing said the accident occurred when a car pulling a pickup truck stopped at a red light at a highway construction job.

Another car crashed into the rear of the truck and knocked it into the car. The large trailer-truck approached and the driver jackknifed the truck to keep from hitting the wreckage. A total estimate of the damage to all vehicles is about $7,000, Downing reported.

Camden Group Trying to Save Plant

CAMDEN, Mo. — An Arkansas delegation, including Gov. Orval Faubus, will call on Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson to discuss shutdown plans for the Naval Ammunition Depot here.

Don W. Faure, president of the Camden Chamber of Commerce, announced the plan. He said he hoped the meeting could be held this month.

The National Ordnance Works Corporation, civilian operators of the NAD plant at Slidell, received notice recently from the Navy Department that no production was planned after present work schedules are completed. The shutdown will be due to budget reductions for conventional-type rockets, the Navy said.

Republicans Dependent on One Man

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was President Eisenhower himself who said the Republican party is not "dependent" on one man. But it certainly is now. And he's the man.

The reason: with the exception of Vice President Nixon — and there is some talk the Republicans may ditch him as Eisenhower's running mate — the party in the past four years has not built up any potential successor to Eisenhower. The same thing happened to the Democrats in the Franklin D. Roosevelt years.

The Republicans may land on the political rocks in 1960 if Eisenhower wins this year and they do no more in the next four years to push forward presidential prospects than they did in the past four.

Eisenhower looked so much more the winner than any other Republican in sight that the party wanted him even though he starts out under a handicap: his heart attack; no other candidate would have to beat.

Eisenhower and his party can still hope his enormous popularity will carry the day. But they know uncertainty in the public mind about his health may cost them votes and make the result closer than in 1952.

They can't afford a vice presidential candidate who will lose them votes. This year, they know, voters will be thinking more than ever of the old saying: "The vice president is one heartbeat from the presidency."

For that reason the man the Republicans pick as Eisenhower's running mate this year will probably be the man they would have picked as their presidential candidate if Eisenhower wasn't running.

Who'll have them to choose from? A handful of Republicans come to mind: Nixon Sen. Knowland of California, Thomas E. Dewey, Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Eisenhower has pushed Nixon to the front since 1952. Nixon has wide support among many — but not all — Republican politicians. Eisenhower has declined to say he wants him again. Nixon's future is unclear.

Knowland seems to consider himself presidential timber. He was anxious to run if Eisenhower didn't. He can hardly claim a huge following. He already has said he doesn't want the No. 2 place on Eisenhower's ticket.

Herter has been mentioned. But he's no national figure. There might be a dispute over his nomination for the vice presidency. He was born in Paris and the Constitution says a president must be a natural-born citizen.

Dewey two-time Joseph in the presidential sweepstakes. A big section of Republicans — the Taft wing — has small use for him. If he still has the presidential bug, he's been keeping it quiet.

Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations and a long-time Eisenhower backer, didn't even win re-election in his own state of Massachusetts this last time he ran for the Senate.

Except for Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who says he doesn't want the job, no one in Eisenhower's Cabinet is being talked of much for the vice presidency.

Meanwhile, Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser warmly greeted Syrian President Shukry El Kuwayti when he arrived in Cairo this morning for an Arab conference of anti-Baghdad pact states. Well-informed Arab sources said King Saud of Saudi Arabia would arrive in Cairo tomorrow for sessions among the Egyptian-Syrian-Saudi Arabian heads of state in what amounts to a "council of war."

New clashes between Israel and Syria increased the threat of war, and there were open predictions in London that Jordan's ouster of British Lt. Gen. John Glubb made war "almost inevitable."

Diplomats feared the firing of Glubb, as head of Jordans Arab Legion had removed a major restraining force, and that Jordan would again ally itself with Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia against Israel.

Demonstrations by anti-British Arab Legionaries were reported in Amman, the Jordan capital, and several persons were reported injured as jubilant citizens fired into the air to celebrate the reported removal of a fourth British officer.

Even without trying to overthrow his government, the rebels could apply pressure to force a toughening of the attitude toward anti-British moves by Arab nations.

The gem, however, valued by the owner of the mine at $15,000, still is here, locked in a safe, awaiting shipment to a New York cutter.

Leaving her husband at home to baby-sit, Mrs. A. L. Parker came with friends to the southwest Arkansas site of the Crater of Diamonds, paid her $1.50 entrance fee, and began scratching for diamonds.

She found the diamond about 150 yards to the left of the entrance to the crater.

Mrs. H. A. Miller, wife of the manager of the diamond mine, estimated its value and said it was the largest diamond ever found on the surface in North America. It measured .1 inches long, about five-eighths of an inch wide, and about one-quarter of an inch thick, Mrs. Miller said.

The diamond mine, which was last worked commercially in 1949, mainly is a tourist attraction. For the payment of a fee, tourists are permitted to search for surface diamonds.

Mrs. Parker will be required to pay the management 25 per cent of the appraised value of the stone, and pay the state 4 per cent tax; part of the gamble taken with the $1.50 entrance fee.

On diamonds of five carats and less, the management doesn't take a percentage.

Mrs. Miller said the stone, "a blue-white diamond without a flaw," probably is a sliver from a larger stone. She guessed that the mother stone might weight 200 to 400 carats.

Mrs. Parker, who said she came here on a spur-of-the-moment decision, said she knew the stone was a diamond when she first saw it.

"But I couldn't believe it," she said. "It was so large I didn't think it could be a diamond."

The diamond probably came to the surface during recent heavy rains, Mrs. Miller said, diamond hunting always is best after a heavy rain.

Mrs. Parker, an amateur geologist, left home with Trinity River in Texas as her destination. She was with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Halstead of Dallas. They planned to search for petrified palm wood. Halstead missed the turn to Trinity River, Mrs. Parker said, and when she questioned him about it, he said, "Let's go hunt diamonds." So they did.

Halstead said he has found 10 diamonds here in previous trips.

The first diamond was found here in 1908 by John Huddleston, a Pike County Farmer. Shortly after the discovery on his farm, he sold the property to the Arkansas Diamond Corp., for $36,000.

Mrs. Miller's husband and father-in-law purchased the tract in 1912, she said, and mining operations since that time have been erried.

Eden conferred throughout the weekend with Glubb, with his cabinet ministers and with Britain's military leaders. War Minister Anthony Head flew to Cyprus last night to "see the forces," and possibly to arrange the airlift.

Conviction of Costello Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld the conviction of Frank Costello, New York gambler, on income tax evasion charges.

The Italian-born Costello was convicted in May, 1954 after a six-week trial in New York and was sentenced to five years in prison and a $20,000 fine. A one-time underworld kingpin, he also faces deportation proceedings.

Justice Black delivered the 7-0 decision. Justices Clark and Harlan disqualified themselves.

NOT IMPRESSED HOLLYWOOD, (UPI) — Actress Dolores Gray casually mentioned to actress Ann Sheridan that she had seven poodles. Miss Sheridan wasn't very impressed.

"I have 17 of them," she old Miss Gray.

The latest attempt to produce diamonds commercially ended in 1949.

The largest diamond ever found here was a 40.28-carat stone uncovered in a mining operation. Originally valued at $75,000, it was reduced to 15 carats to eliminate flaws and sold for $25,500, Mrs. Miller said.

About 15,000 persons visited the crater last year. Mrs. Miller said, and found 107 diamonds with an average weight of 50 carats.

Decision Also Applies to Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld a decision that the ban on racial segregation in public schools applies also to tax-supported colleges and universities.

The decision was given by a special three-judge U.S. District Court in Greensboro, N.C. It ordered the admission of three Negroes to the University of North Carolina.

University officials appealed to the highest tribunal to reverse the District Court and to reverse its own decisions of May 17, 1954 striking down segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools.

The Supreme Court action today in affirming the lower court was taken without the customary hearing or arguments. The high court simply issued an order which read:

"The motion to affirm is granted and the judgment is affirmed."

The court noted in its order that it was acting "per curiam," meaning the full court itself was speaking rather than one of its members speaking for the court.

The three Negroes involved in the case were admitted to the university last fall. They are Leroy B. Frasier, Jr., Ralph K. Frasier and John L. Brandon, all of Durham, N.C.

The special court in ordering the Negroes admitted cited the Supreme Court's holding in the 1954 school segregation cases that "in the field of public education the doctrine of separate but equal has no place."

The university said in its appeal it asked overturning of the 1954 segregation decision "because it is not within the power and authority of this Supreme Court to amend the Constitution; that power is given only to the people and their elected representatives."

Widow Fails to Share Property

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The widow and second wife of Dr. W. H. Horn of Columbia County failed in the Arkansas Supreme Court today in an effort to share in property of Dr. Horn's first wife, who died before he did.

Dr. Horn and Berlie Lee Horn in 1938 made wills bequeathing to the other all the property of each.

Mrs. Horn died Oct. 3, 1940. Dr. Horn remarried. He died Sept. 14, 1954.

Mrs. Alpha Horn, widow of the doctor, discovered the first Mrs. Horn's will among Dr. Horn's papers after his death.

Claud H. Horn, son of Mrs. Berlie Lee Horn, resisted acceptance of the will and was upheld by Columbia Chancery Court and the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Alpha Horn receives no share in the estate of Mrs. Berlie Lee Horn, but if the first Mrs. Horn's property had gone to Dr. Horn, as the will provided, Mrs. Alpha Horn would have shared it along with other property of Dr. Horn.

The Supreme Court said acceptance of the will was blocked by a law which says that no will may be probated more than five years after death of the testator except when the document has been concealed by fraud.

Mrs. Joe Martin

Mrs. Joe Martin entertained the Evening Shade Good Neighbor Club Thursday March 1. An exchange of flower cuttings, plants and seeds took place by those present. Singing was directed by Mrs. Martin with Mrs. Lester Beckam at the piano.

The devotional was given by the hostess and followed by prayer led by Mrs. Buck Deveny.

Those present were Mesdames; Beckam, Martin, Deveny, McMurry, McCormack, Sanders, Bright, Elam, Garner and six children.

The club project for the year is improvement of our roads, and plans were discussed for making quilts.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Beckam, and the hostess served ice cream and cake to the members and guest present.

The next meeting will be held the 1st Thursday in April at the home of Mrs. Bob McCormack with an auction sale.

had come in at 3:23 p. m., stuffed with superb haddock as dealt by P. J. Moriarty, owner of a 6th Avenue emporium of hunger.

A dignified lady passing by me gave a $12.65 bill; at least it seemed like $12.65 — give or take half a buck. I felt justified in giving a dignified $12.65 back based on the haddock.

No reply. Silence. Class will always tell.

I picked up a copy of the New Yorker, smiled at the cartoons, stared at the short pieces looked at the signatures of the fiction pieces.

Then I started looking at my watch. Had Deborah Kerr stood me up? It was quite a distinction, but one that somehow I didn't want. She was one of the Hollywood few I really wanted to see. The black-browed man at the door grumbled vaguely at his wife, a magazine that has to do with business, and trusted no one but myself would realize my interest was purely temporary, and not incurable.

Then that tall young man, gilded in layers of renown between a birthday cake and an admiral, came up at 3:45 p.m., and said in a tone as apologetic as an usher who has seated a guest wrong in the cathedral at a cardinal's first Mass:

"You were to see Miss Kerr." She had been there all along, patiently waiting for half an hour. As I turned the corner and entered where she was, her red gold hair and friendly blue green eyes, smilingly drew me through the midafternoon gloom. As I walked toward her I couldn't but envy the black-browed guardian at the door so used to beauty that Deborah Kerr could have passed him unnoticed.

Absence Makes a Boy's Heart Wonder

Dear Miss Dix: For three years my steady and I have planned on marriage, but every time something comes up to change our plans. He lives in a distant city and it's impossible for us to see each other very often. We have always kept in contact by mail, but lately his letters don't come as frequently as they did. What can I do to hold his interest? I love him very much.

EDITH L.
Answer: Girls can live on dreams and letters, but a boy needs something more tangible. Remote-control courtship seldom is long-lasting.

While doing your utmost to win the boy through correspondence, it would be wise also to follow through on local friendships. The possibility of a letdown from your absent sweetheart is very great; it would be well for you to cushion the blow by encouraging other young men.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married seven years; we are both 28. My husband was a musician when we first married. He played nights clubs, drank a lot and was very attentive to the women he met. We separated a number of times and I always cried and begged to come back.

After our last separation, which was the longest — three months — he came back to me. After three years of playing music for a living, he went to work. He quit drinking, but his temper is still violent. In the last year or so my love for him has gone. Yet, I can't bring myself to leave. Maybe he's a habit. Or perhaps I'm afraid.

He's threatened to kill me if I leave him again. I must admit that except for his temper, which doesn't flare up too often, he's a good husband.

CARLA
Answer: That a girl can be guilty of such base ingratitude is hard to believe, but that a son can be so stupidly blind as beyond comprehension.

Turning the other cheek will never solve this problem. Eventually you'll have no more checks to turn.

At the moment, your daughter-in-law is calling the tune, with her husband complacently agreeing from the girl you'll never get anything but insidious indifference.

Your son, however, will almost surely see the light. The contest between the warm, closely knit home he left, and the calculating cruelty of the present abode, is too marked to go unnoticed.

The girl is a grasping, greedy person, out to get everything she can from everyone. Pray for your son, that he will get enough authority in his own home to offset the Machiavellian mind now running it.

Five-Time Loser
Dear Miss Dix: My husband has been married five times, though he told me he never has been married before. He's 38 and I'm 21. Also he drinks, which I didn't know before our marriage. He's always talking about his other wives, comparing me with them (to my disadvantage, of course). We've only been married three months, but I want to leave him already.

RHODE
Answer: What a lot of grief you'd have been saved if you had trusted less and investigated more. You really can't expect a man with such a marital record to keep quiet about it, so naturally he talks about his former wives. If four other women found him impossible, I doubt if you'll work a miracle.

Dear Miss Dix: Although I am 20 years old and have a very good job, my father will not go anywhere except to work and the movies one night a week. I pay for my room and board but a Friday night movie date with a girl is the extent of my social life. Is this fair? I feel I'm old enough to know right from wrong.

M. W.
Answer: I guess your room and board money looks so good to Dad that he's insuring it for the rest of your life. No dates, no boys and daughter will remain at home, working and paying. Your father is unreasonable, unrealistic and foolish. Of course a girl of 20 knows right from wrong. If he

Only four berths remained empty today in the sprawling, 25-team NCAA championship basketball tournament, and two of the vacancies may be filled by tonight.

All four spots are reserved for conference champions—the Southeastern, Big Ten, Big Seven and Ohio Valley.

The SEC is putting its entry to a vote. Alabama, already in possession of its first title since 1934, ordinarily would get the berth. But because of the Tide's five regulars are four-year men and ineligible under NCAA rules, the SEC members must decide whether to send Barna's second up second in the conference.

Iowa can collar the Big Ten title and journey birth by getting past Indiana tonight at Iowa City. The Big Seven could be decided tomorrow night with a Kansas State victory over Kansas.

Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech meet in the first phase of three-way playoff for the Ohio Valley title Wednesday. The winner then meets Morehead Ky. Thursday for the crown.

Five teams gained berths by winning conference crowns over the weekend:

N.C. State swept through the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney as Vic Molocet set a three-game playoff record by scoring 78 points clipping Wake Forest 76-64 in the final.

West Virginia repeated in the Southern, defeating Richmond 58-56 in its tourney final on Hot Rod Hundley's layup with 43 seconds left.

Dartmouth won its first Ivy crown in 10 years after losing three of its four league games. The Indians rallied and capped a nine-game winning streak by beating Brown 90-79 in double overtime.

Houston, though idle, won its first Missouri Valley title as Oklahoma A&M eliminated St. Louis 52-49.

UCLA clinched the Pacific Coast title by sweeping California in a pair 85-80 and 84-62.

Around the World

TOKYO (UP) — A U.S. Air Force transport slammed into a snowbank on the side of Mount Guji today but its two pilots walked away unharmed, the Air Force reported.

The two-engined C-47 crashed in 20 feet of snow about 1,000 feet from the top of the sacred mountain that overlooks the plains of Kantou.

An Air Force spokesman said the deep snow padded the shock of the crash, enabling the two pilots to crawl out and walk to a Japanese weather station a short distance away.

They were identified as Maj. John C. Fowle, of Lake Worth, Fla., and Capt. Earl Preston Kelly, of Clear Springs, Md.

The plane, on a local test flight, burrowed into the snow at the 11,000 foot level of the 12,375 foot peak.

Shortly after the crash, a jet flying over the scene radioed a report. A SA-16 rescue aircraft flew to the spot to parachute doctors but the Air Force spokesman said the pilots were "all right" and did not require medical attention.

Air Force and Japanese photographers who attempted to fly over the scene of the crash reported that gale force winds drove them away.

Manila, P. I. (UP) — The Army announced today the capture of Paulino Viernes, notorious leader of a HUKI squad that killed the wife and daughter of the late President Manuel L. Quezon in an ambush seven years ago.

The Army said Viernes, captured yesterday in Talvera, would be questioned today about the ambush which also resulted in the death of Quezon's son-in-law, and Quezon City Mayor Ponciano Bernardo.

Mrs. Carl Dalrymple and Mrs. C. H. Tompkins returned Wednesday from a visit in Little Rock.

'DECISIONS'
WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower heard a sermon yesterday on a topic that had a familiar ring.

Dr. L. R. Elson of National Presbyterian church where the President attended the 9 a.m. service spoke on "alternatives in high decisions."

JOKE BACKFIRES
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., (UP) — James Lucker, 22, recently discharged from the Army, said he was only "teasing" a waitress when he threatened to leave a restaurant unless she let him pay for a cup of coffee with a $100 bill.

Police, who didn't get the joke, took Lucker to jail.

Kidding Self Is Healthy Sign on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has been displaying a healthy tendency in recent weeks to view some of its activities with candor and even to kid itself a little.

Most recently Max Liebman brought a refreshing satire of television programming and commercials to the home screen via NBC-TV. "Panorama," presented last Sunday evening, was a lot of fun during much of its 90 minutes.

Something that has long needed kidding and received a rollicking going over from Liebman is that dreary business of screen credits. He offered us credits for everything—even for the use of cigarettes, matches and a trenchcoat on the show.

A fine performance by Tony Randall contributed greatly to the general merriment and satire. As a vehicle for Imogene Coca's return to the TV screen, however, "Panorama" displayed its weaker moments. The things she was asked to do—or, at any rate, the things she did—were altogether too broad for one viewer's entertainment.

Satire is a keen-edged sword while burlesque is a club. Miss Coca's burlesquing in "The Merriest Widow" and "Wide Wide Wonderland" was a rather heavy clubbing compared to the lighter thrusts of the rest of the program.

It's doubtful if such atrocities as long, boring screen credits can ever be ruled off the air. But they might just happen to be laughed off the air someday. Liebman made a good start in the right direction, and let's hope it continues.

TV drama also has been casting a searching eye on the medium recently. Two of these dramas have been especially outstanding with few punches pulled. Good old Kraft TV Theater received its biggest haul of fan mail in the past year after it presented "Gold Old Charlie Fay," a drama of a ruthless television producer.

The theme was akin to the Alcoa Hour presentation of "Man on a Tigex," which took the audience into the TV advertising agency closets a few weeks ago. This, too, was popular as well as first-rate TV drama.

MANILA, P. I. (UP) — American Actor Marlon Brando arrived here today from the United States and touched off a near riot at International airport.

He was "rescued" by four policemen as a mob of 200 persons, mostly teen aged girls, rushed up as he alighted from his plane and fought for autographs.

ELEPHANT PUSH
DAVENPORT, Iowa, (UP) — When a ruckload of exhibition elephants became stalled and blocked traffic on a Mississippi bridge, animal keepers solved the problem by making one of the elephants get out and push the big semi-trailer out of the way.
